

Regarding the possibility of LPFM being given priority over FM translator service:

I am a devoted listener of K-LOVE (91.3 in San Antonio). In addition to providing access to current Christian music and artists, the station provides numerous announcements for local Christian events. Without this service, I would not have access to all the Christian events happening in San Antonio.

If K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster, we would not have contemporary Christian music in San Antonio via the radio. Everyone I know listens to K-LOVE and displacing this station would affect thousands of people in San Antonio.

K-LOVE serves individual communities nationwide, through their free local public service announcements, through providing the most current Christian music, and interviews with Christian artist. K-LOVE also ties these individual communities together through common values, beliefs and interests. A local Christian music station (if there was one) could not bring the same level of service that this national station can provide.
